C-B Prefers Ice Rink;
Golf Links 2nd on List

President McFarland yesterday announced plans for two new student dormitories, and said that work is scheduled for remodeling the library and for constructing a new health center.

Plans for the dormitories, approved Sept. 13 by the State Board of Education, call for construction costing $800,000. The board authorized President McFarland to finance the project by obligating dormitory revenue.

One unit, costing $600,000 will join Craig hall and South hall. Another wing will connect North and Corbin halls and will cost $200,000.

President McFarland said the library will be remodeled and ex-spring quarters. While the work is being done, temporary facilities will be set up, probably in the basements of the Liberal Arts building and the Women's Center.

By KIM FORMAN

"We'll be skating by Christmas or soon afterward."

That is the way Pres. Carl McFarland answered a question Thursday evening concerning three proposed recreational developments as the Central board held its first meeting of the year. Under discussion were a $50,000 year-around ice skating rink, a nine-hole golf course and a year-around swimming pool.

A number of questions were still unsolved on the skating rink such as special tickets, time schedules, and the effect it would have on the two other recreational projects. The board members, however, were nearly unanimous in favoring the rink for the top of the preference list. Second was the golf course and the pool was set aside for future consideration. Construction can be expected to

New Health Center

The other building plans announced are for a new health center to replace the present building near the entrance of the oval.

He added that the new Student Union facility and Commons should be in operation "at the beginning of 1955." Meanwhile, he said, the present Student Union is gradually being converted into a center for student arts and crafts.

Forty Freshmen Attend Conference At Flathead Lake

Forty freshmen, together with campus leaders and faculty members, attended a three-day orientation session Sept. 17-19 at the Methodist camp grounds on Flathead lake. The camp gave the incoming students an opportunity to become acquainted with the new aspects of college life.

Discussions involved budgeting time and money, church attendance, and individuality in college. Leading the groups were Dean Gordon Castle, Dr. E. C. Lory and Dr. Deane W. Fern.

Bear Paw Taps 25 New Members

A large crowd congregated at SOS last night to see Dean Wunderlich tap twenty-five new Bear Paws.

The men tapped were Lino Marsillo, George Lambros, Cole McPherson, Don Gaab, Gary Hunt, Bob Tidball, Bill Cogswell, John Fowler, and Dick Patten all of Missoula.

President Leaves Friday

President McFarland told the board that he planned to leave Missoula early Friday morning for Minneapolis where he will confer on bond issues covering prospective campus construction. One of the items high on his list will be a new health center. The president told Central board that approximately $30,000 of the $40,000 in ASMSU funds turned over as a loan last spring would go into the construction of the skating rink.

Planetarium, Radio-TV Center

The new planetarium, equipment for which has already been received, will probably be installed before the end of 1954. It is to be located in the present Fine Arts building.

The President also announced tentative plans for the old wooden gymnasium northeast of Main hall. He said, "It will gradually be converted into a center for radio and television, although parts of it will also be used for a zoological laboratory and for wildlife research."

MSU Foresters Publish In National Magazine

The national forestry publication, "Journal of Range Management," published an article in its Sept. '54 edition by two MSU students and two recent graduates.

The article, the result of an extensive study on different horizons of three grasslands soils of Western Montana to determine grass growth, was written by Lawrence Helwig, Waubay, S.D.; Ted Reiger, Plevna; and graduates Charles Joy, '54, Alexandria, Virginia; and Monte Supola, '54, Pompeys Pillar.

Bear Paw Taps 25 New Members

A large crowd congregated at SOS last night to see Dean Wunderlich tap twenty-five new Bear Paws.

The men tapped were Lino Marsillo, George Lambros, Cole McPherson, Don Gaab, Gary Hunt, Bob Tidball, Bill Cogswell, John Fowler, and Dick Patten all of Missoula.

Special Committee

To help solve some of the questions on the ice rink Central board will soon be setting up a special committee. They plan to contact students from Butte, Great Falls and Billings—cities where skating is already available.

The president said an additional bond issue would probably be floated because the rink plus the proposed golf course would cost in the neighborhood of $80,000. He said some of the labor and materials would be donated but did not elaborate on this point.

McFarland Meets With Group in Minneapolis

President McFarland will leave for Minneapolis to attend a group meeting of the legal task force of the Hoover Commission. He plans to return to the campus sometime Monday.

Kaimin Policies Restated

The Kaimin staff members, like students in other schools on campus, have once again started the daily routine of college life. We feel that this is the time to acquaint new students with Kaimin policies as they now stand and re-emphasize these policies for former students.

Two More Quarters

The present Kaimin staff, which started work last spring quarter, will continue publishing the paper until the end of winter quarter this year. At that time a new staff will be appointed.

The paper is published by students in the journalism school every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday that school is in session.

Although Kaimin space is limited, we attempt to present all important student, faculty, and MSU news items. Our staff has selected an interpretive policy of reporting the news. By this we mean that news will be reported with background and facts, not opinions.

Editorials on page two will be initiated by the author. The editorial column will reflect the opinions of the Kaimin editorial staff, not necessarily the opinions of any one group on campus.

Letters to the editor will be published if the staff sees fit and if space permits. All letters must be 250 words or shorter. Only signed letters will be considered for publication.

As practicing journalists on the campus newspaper our aim is to improve with experience. We welcome constructive criticism and advice. —B. N.

Underdog Grizzlies to Meet Bowl Contenders Tomorrow

The Montana Grizzly football team, 33 strong, left by train Wednesday for Iowa and tomorrow's game with the Big Ten's University of Iowa.

The Grizzlies will go into the game a decided underdog, having been picked by pre-season forecasters to finish sixth in the Skyline, while Iowa has been strongly touted as a possible Rose Bowl contender.

The Iowa line-up is liberally sprinkled with a galaxy of stars that include: guard Calvin Jones, NBC-TV All-American first team; end Frank Gilliam, Central Press All-American third team; and Fullback Capt. George (Binkey) Broeder, Chicago Daily News all-western third team. The Hawkeyes won a stiff tussle from Michigan State last week, 14-10, which makes the odds even greater in their favor.

Against this vaunted power Montana will send its own stars—Dick Imer, all-conference halfback; Dick Heath, second team all-conference quarterback; Murdo Campbell, the versatile, do-anything kid, and Bob Dantic, who is just about the lightest fullback in collegiate ball, at 160 pounds.

In the line there will be ends George Samuelson and Keith Peterson; tackles Bob Miles and Paul Weskamp; guards Joe DeLuca and Doug Dasinger; and center Marlyn Jensen.

The remainder of the 33 Grizzlies who will attempt to stop the Iowans are: halfbacks Dale Shupe, Bill Gue, Dick Gregory and Bill Kaiserman; fullbacks Don Bissell and Curt Milne; quarterback Paul Enochson; ends Ken Byerly, Frank Kosci, Pete Muri, Jerry Johnson, and Nels Olson; tackles Don Little, Buck Gehring, Art Dahlberg and Jim Black; Guards Howard Burke, Walt Laird, Bob McGihon and Gene Downey; and centers Bob Small and Otto Simon.

A live play-by-play broadcast will be carried by radio station KXLL at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Sport Circuit

By J. D. Coleman

This week-end, all Skyline conference teams except Montana and Utah are engaged in regular loop tilts. Montana, of course, will be playing the Big Ten's University of Iowa, and Utah travels to Eugene to tackle Oregon University. Starting this week, and continuing until the end of the football season, a portion of this column will be devoted to predicting the outcome of games played by Skyline clubs, and by Montana State college.

Here are the predicted winners and scores for the games to be played this week-end. The teams' records are indicated in parenthesis. Brigham Young Cougars (0-2), over the Colorado Aggies (0-2), 28-19. Wyoming Cowboys (0-2), over the Denver Pioneers (2-0), 21-14. New Mexico Lobos (2-0), over the Utah State Farmers (0-2), 21-13. Oregon Ducks (1-1), over the Utah Redskins (0-2), 32-7. Idaho State Bengals over the Montana State Bobcats, 20-13. And finally, Iowa Hawkeyes, (1-0), over the Montana Grizzlies (1-0), 48-12. Ouch!

The latest statistics released by the Skyline commissioner's office reveal that Dick Imer, Montana's all-conference halfback, ranks fifth in ball totting with 90 yards in 10 carries, and tenth in pass receiving. Dick Heath, Grizzly quarterback, is fourth in passing, behind Jimmy Bowen, Denver, Dave Dungan, Utah, and Joe Mastrogiovanni, Wyoming. Dick Imer and Murdo Campbell are fifth and seventh in scoring, with 13 and 12 points respectively.

Denver University dominates Skyline statistics after two weeks of play. The Pioneers have a fat lead in yardage with 953 yards netted from rushing and passing in the two games. Pioneer backfield stars Fred Tesone, Jimmy Bowen, Fred Mahaffey and Rusty Fairly, lead in all but two of the offensive statistics. This looks impressive, but a close inspection of Denver's two opponents will show that, as football powers, they rank a big, fat zero. Denver really fattened its average by romping over hapless Colorado college and Drake, but its next two contests, against Wyoming and Montana, should really take some of the stuffing out of those over-inflated averages.

Scribe Previews Skyline Football; Picks Cowpokes to Dethrone Utah

By Bill Larcombe

With most Skyline teams entering the second week of action, the Wyoming Cowboys, led by Joe Mastrogiovanni, appear to be the top choice to capture the conference crown from defending champion Utah. "Mastro" has been moved to the quarterback position and his replacement at the wingback spot is Vic Kolenik, who transferred from the University of Tennessee. The Pokes have greater depth in every position and with a more versatile attack appear to be the team to beat.

Utah, which has won the championship three years in a row, lost 23 lettermen via graduation, including Don Rydlatch, one of the best passers in the school's history. Despite these heavy losses in the line and backfield, 15 veterans reported to coach Jack Curtice, including Herb Naaken, an outstanding halfback, and end Orville Nellestein.

The conference "darkhorse" could be New Mexico where coach Bob Titchenal has ten starters returning including Larry White, who has twice received honorable All-American at center. The Lobos' strength is in the line where lettermen return from end to end. "Porky" Levya, a fine quarterback, has prompted coach Titchenal to replace his single-wing attack with the unbalanced T-formation.

Fourteen lettermen plus highly regarded freshmen form the nucleus of John Ronning's Utah State eleven, which finished second in the conference last year. Standout returnees are tackles Dave Krakthorp and Carl Ebert, along with backs Kent Harris and Charles Hatch. Top of the freshman crop appear to be fullback Norm Price and halfback Ezar Smith.

(Editor's note: This is the first of two articles previewing Skyline conference football teams. The second will appear when space permits.)

Cub-WMCOE Go Set Tonight; Byrne Optimistic

The Grizzly Cubs will travel to Dillon today (instead of Saturday as previously scheduled) to play the Western Montana Bulldogs under the lights in their opening game of the season.

Although the freshmen have had only a week of scrimmage, Coach Bob Byrne is optimistic about his Grizzly prep squad. "The boys are big and fast and have done exceptionally well in scrimmages," he said. "We'll give them a game equal to last year's."

Byrne named the following as probable backfield starters: Ervin Rosera, Lena, Wis., fullback; Tom Farrell, Glasgow, and Don Williamson, Butte, halfbacks; Roy Bray, Missoula, quarterback.
